

Do not consider the pins not connected to anything (they may not be present on the boards used, they are inserted by default by the software used to make the diagram)

